

Someone Else - New single from Nille Nyc

With clear references to the world of R&B music, the edgy vocals of Nille Nyc shine through on her new single, “Someone Else”.

Following up on the release of her debut EP “PowerPainPillsPercussion” (2020), Danish electro pop artist Nille Nyc is set to release “Someone Else”, her first single of 2021, as a precursor to her upcoming full-length album.

Let’s face it, we’ve all been there: a relationship that seems to constantly be teetering on the edge of the abyss, until one day when it finally implodes. Afterwards, all that we can do is pick up the pieces and move on. “Someone Else” is a story about looking back at the aftermath of a bad relationship from the safety of a better place. With a playful guitar, heavy R&B beat and edgy vocals, “Someone Else” opens a new chapter in Nille Nyc’s musical journey.

“Throughout our lifetime we experience relationships which challenge our core values as human beings, both professionally and personally. Every relationship needs to grow and mature; to look to the future while keeping the lessons of the past in mind. The same holds true for music. Every musician needs to keep innovating and experimenting. They need to take risks and challenge themselves by exploring new ideas and new ways of expressing themselves. If they don’t, then they run the risk of becoming static and their music will suffer for it”, Nille Nyc says.

To realize her musical vision for “Someone Else”, Nille Nyc collaborated with producer Christian Coer (FRAADS, Daniel Firth among others). Nille explains:

On “Someone Else” I collaborated with the Danish producer Christian Coer and moved away from the dark, heavy synth sounds on songs like “Safe Island” by wrapping elements from R&B around more traditional singer-songwriter instruments. I really like how the clear, crisp sound matches my vocals on this track and underlines the song’s message.”

“Someone Else” will be released on all major streaming services Friday, March 26th.
